About

Legal Forum for Kashmir - LFK

The Legal Forum for Kashmir - LFK is an international legal Advocacy group working on the conflict in Kashmir. Its members are indigenous people of the occupied territory in Jammu and Kashmir. The aim of the organisation is to defend the political, social and human rights of Kashmiris and to promote the UN sanctioned Right of Self-Determination.

In today's world, the notion of conflict resolution necessitates that those who continue to be denied their rights or remain excluded be given an opportunity to present their case. Unfortunately, it remains the case that Kashmiris themselves continue to be marginalised, even invisibilised, in most discussions or narratives on the conflict. LFK has, therefore, been established to fill the gap, providing an international forum through which its members can become effective participants and contributors in the international community.

LFK works to address the consequences of marginalisation, working with its members. As an independent organisation, LFK advocates, nationally and internationally, the Right of Self-Determination and respect for human rights in Occupied Kashmir through legal research, documentation and capacity-building to address, under international law, the violations of individual and collective rights of Kashmiris.

Chapter 2: International Law & Land Grabbing in IOJK

Chapter 3: Recommendations

Introduction

The enactment of Jammu & Kashmir Re-organization Act 2019 by the Indian Parliament after the unilateral and Illegal annexation of Indian occupied Jammu Kashmir-IOJK marks a critical turning point in the transition of colonial laws into settler colonial legislations applicable to state. This enactment bifurcated the UN recognized disputed state into two Union territories Jammu Kashmir & Ladakh and also allowed massive administrative and legislative changes.

Under the Reorganization Act 2019 the occupying state repealed and amended more than 200 laws which claimed to safeguard the land and citizenship rights of indigenous Kashmiris.

Our previous report titled as 'Colonial Diary' highlighted various orders, notification and amendments passed by the occupying authority to change the disputed nature of occupied territory and provide a legal cover to demographic changes.

The war trampled region is witnessing a new trend of state persecution under the pretext of alleged anti-encroachment drive in 20 District of Jammu & Kashmir identifying State land measuring 178005.213 acres in Kashmir region and 25,159.56 acres in Jammu encroached by the residents who basically owned the said land and properties under the Big Landed estate Abolition Act (Agrarian reforms act) , JK State land vesting of ownership Act 2001, JK Evacuees (Administration) of Property Act, Jammu and Kashmir Tenancy Act 1980, Jammu and Kashmir Common Lands(Regulation) Act, 1956 and other numerous orders passed by the erstwhile State government in favor of Landless peasants.

This fact sheet report exposes the occupying state's Israeli model of systematic settler colonial process in IOJK by allowing alleged 'Anti-encroachment drive' against the civilian population of Jammu Kashmir with the aim to dislodge them from these Agricultural and non-Agriculture properties which would lead to their economic disempowerment.

Further the occupying authorities are retrieving the alleged encroached land to facilitate the creation of private land banks under the Central government's New Central Sector Scheme for Industrial Development of the Union Territory of Jammu & Kashmir which was notified under the J&K Industrial Policy, Jammu & Kashmir Private Industrial Estate Development Policy (2021-2030), and J&K Industrial Land Allotment Policy.

The fact sheet annexed, comprises the TEHSIL/ VILLAGE wise list of alleged encroached land under the proper description in 20 districts of IOJK. In urban centers the land has been utilized mostly for economic activities. While as in rural areas, the land has been used for the agricultural purpose. In both the cases the land under the question is source of livelihood.

District Srinagar

Overview

The occupying authorities have identified 133 localities in District Srinagar possessing 175,329 Kanals and 11.2 Marla (21916.193 acres) of “alleged state land”. The nature of the land owned by the local residents are Banjri-i-qadeem, Qhul, Maliyari, Gairmumkin, Maydani, and Bhutoo. The majority of land, residential structure and shops in possession belong to the economically lower middle-class. Any attempt to dislodge them from these lands would lead to their economic disempowerment. Most of these landholdings sustain the livelihood of the people. These landholdings have been molded into units of economic activity and sustenance over decades.

Chapter 2

International Law
Arbitrary Land Grabbing in IOJK

The laws of peace and war both prohibit the States from forced eviction of civilian population. The UN Guideline on Forced Eviction enunciates that UNHRC (1993) unanimously adopted a resolution entitled ‘Forced evictions’, are a gross violation of human rights in particular the right to ‘adequate housing’. These protected right float from the international housing, land and property (HLP) right legal framework having broader scope than is often known. The HLP norms are enshrined in domestic laws and international Human rights law, international humanitarian law and International criminal law.

Government of India being a state party to numerous IHRL and IHL treaties related to the HLP norm is bound by obligation to respect, protect, promote and fulfil these rights. Human rights laws indicate that once such obligations have been formally accepted through the ratification of an international or regional treaty by virtue of customary international law or promulgation of related domestic legislation, the State must endeavor by all appropriate means to ensure everyone has access to HLP resources adequate for health, well-being and security, consistent with other human rights, including those affected by potential land acquisition.

PROTECTION UNDER HUMAN RIGHTS LAW

a) The right to adequate housing and to the continuous improvement of living conditions:

The HLP norm has significantly developed under Human Rights law over the past 75 years. The development began with the induction of UDHR (1948), which recognized both the right to adequate housing ¹and the right to own property.²The HLP rights have been reaffirmed and developed in multiple Human Rights treaties such as Economic, Social and Cultural Rights,³ the Guiding Principles on the Rights of Internally Displaced Persons (1998),⁴ The Principles on Housing and Property Restitution for Refugees and Displaced Persons (2005) (the ‘Pinheiro Principles’)⁵ and many others all combine to create a very considerable body of human rights laws and standards relevant to HLP rights. The principal regional human rights frameworks also provide protection of HLP rights.⁶

¹ Article 25(1) of the UDHR provides: “Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family

The Government of India has ratified the ICESCR which is the most significant formulation of HLP right enshrined under Article 11(1) as:

“The States Parties to the present Covenant recognize the right of everyone to an adequate standard of living for himself and his family, including adequate... housing, and to the continuous improvement of living conditions.”

b) The right to be protected against forced evictions

Forced evictions are widely considered to be the most severe violation of HLP rights under human rights law.⁷ The practice of forced evictions involves “the permanent or temporary removal against their will of individuals, families and/or communities from the homes and/ or land which they occupy, without the provision of, and access to, appropriate forms of legal or other protection”⁸ Such instance would apply in the present situation of alleged anti encroachment drive in IIOJK. Although the causes of forced evictions are diverse, all stages of the forced eviction process

⁴ UN Commission on Human Rights, Report of the Representative of the Secretary-General, Mr. Francis M. Deng, submitted pursuant to Commission resolution 1997/39. Addendum: Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement, 11 February 1998, UN Doc. E/CN.4/1998/53/Add.2.

⁵ UN Sub-Commission on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights, Principles on Housing and Property Restitution for Refugees and Displaced Persons, 28 June 2005, UN Doc. E/CN.4/Sub.2/2005/17.

⁸ Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, General Comment No. 7: The right to adequate housing (Art. 11(1)): forced evictions UN Doc. at para 3 involve human rights implications and while the right to adequate housing is perhaps the clearest human right violated,⁹ a large number of other rights are also affected by this practice.¹⁰ In clarifying the content of state obligations to prevent forced evictions, the UN Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural rights has on many occasions officially observed that forced evictions in States parties constitute violations of the ICESCR.

c) The right not to be arbitrarily deprived of one's property

Article 17 of Universal Declaration of Human Rights states that “Everyone has the right to own property alone as well as in association with others. No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property”. India is a signatory to the 2012 ASEAN Human Rights Declaration, which recognizes relevant principles such as the right to property and the right to an effective remedy when alleged violations of this and other rights occur.¹¹

Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 of the European convention on Human Rights (ECHR) protects individuals or legal persons from arbitrary interference by the State with their possessions, while simultaneously empowering the State to control the use of or even deprive of property belonging to individuals or legal persons subject to certain strict conditions. At the domestic level in IOJK the erstwhile constitution of Jammu Kashmir State safeguards the fundamental right to possess property and also under Article 300-A of Indian constitution right to property is basic human right akin to fundamental right. Therefore, the state shall protect the privacy and security of home, property, correspondence and other communications of citizens under the law subject to the provisions of Constitution.

⁹ The following legal provisions prohibit forced evictions: UDHR (Art. 17); ICCPR (Art.17); ILO 169 (Arts.13,14(3), 15(1,2),16,17(2,3),18); UNDRIP (Arts.8 (2b), 10, 28(1,2), 30(2), 32(2)); Geneva Convention (IV), Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War (Art.49); Protocol Additional to the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949, and relating to the Protection of Victims of Non-International Armed Conflicts (Protocol II) (Art. 17); UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on Development based Evictions and Displacement; VGGT (3A, 3(1 2,4), 4(4,9), 6(3), 7(6), 9(9), 10(6), 12(10), 15(9), 16, 21, 23(2), 24(2-5), 25(2-6)

¹⁰ The Committee has devoted ongoing attention to these issues since its fifth session (1990), with particular concern about alleged instances of large-scale forced evictions. At its tenth session the Committee urged the Government to “take all appropriate measures in the meantime to ensure full respect for all economic, social and cultural rights, in particular in relation to the right to housing” (E/C.12/1994/SR.5).

¹¹ ASEAN Human Rights Declaration and Phnom Penh Statement on its Adoption, available at: http://www.asean.org/storage/images/ASEAN_RTK_2014/6_AHRD_Booklet.pdf.

d) Right to restitution after eviction

The UN General Assembly adopted and proclaimed the Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation for Victims of Gross Violations of International Human Rights Law and Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law, which in para. 19, addresses restitution in the following terms:

“Restitution should, whenever possible, restore the victim to the original situation before the gross violations of international human rights law or serious violations of international humanitarian law occurred. Restitution includes, as appropriate: restoration of liberty, enjoyment of human rights, identity, family life and citizenship, return to one’s place of residence, restoration of employment and return of property.”¹²

States are bound by obligations to respect, protect, promote and fulfill housing, land and property rights. States also have the independent duty to investigate and, where appropriate, prosecute grave violations of human rights law. While this duty is most clear in regards to violations under the Convention against Torture¹⁴⁴ and the Genocide Convention.¹³ The duty to investigate and prosecute has also been reinforced by the UN Principles for the Protection and Promotion of Human Rights through Action to Combat Impunity and the UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on the Right to a Remedy and Reparation for Victims of Gross Violations of International. The later document, which was adopted by the UN General Assembly, states clearly:

“The obligation to respect, ensure respect for and implement international human rights law [includes the duty to] investigate violations effectively, promptly, thoroughly and impartially and,

¹³ Article 5 of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of Genocide (1951) provides: “The Contracting Parties undertake to enact...the necessary legislation to give effect to the provisions of the present Convention and, in particular, to provide effective penalties for persons guilty of genocide or any of the other acts enumerated in Article 3” and Article 6 provides: “Persons charged with genocide or any of the other acts enumerated in Article 3 shall be tried by a competent tribunal of the State in the territory of which the act was committed, or by such international penal tribunal as may have jurisdiction with respect to those Contracting Parties which shall have accepted its jurisdiction where appropriate, take action against those allegedly responsible in accordance with domestic and international law”¹⁴

e) International Humanitarian Law

The violation of housing, land and property rights is an almost universal feature of armed conflict, from the destruction of civilian housing and property, to the illegal appropriation and occupation of housing and the forced displacement of populations. To this end, the laws of armed conflict – or international humanitarian law (IHL) – have consistently included the protection of HLP rights during times of conflict. The recent United Nations Guidance Note of the Secretary-General on the United Nations and Land and Conflict, issued in March 2019, provides further evidence at the seriousness accorded to HLP rights in the below context contexts:

United Nations Guidance Note of the Secretary-General on the United Nations and Land and Conflict, issued in March 2019: “Some of the key land-related human rights issues to consider are outlined below. Protection of civilian objects – IHL prohibits the directing of attacks against civilian objects. Civilian objects are any objects that are not military objectives. Military objectives are those objects which by their nature, location, purpose or use make an effective contribution to military action and whose partial or total destruction, capture or neutralization, in the circumstances ruling at the time, offers a definite military advantage. As long as the land in question does not fall within this definition, it remains a civilian object and may not be lawfully targeted. Protection of specific civilian objects – Specific objects, such as the natural environment and cultural property, enjoy special protection against attack. Destruction of property – Under IHL, the destruction or seizure of the property of an adversary is prohibited, unless required by imperative military necessity. Exploitation of natural resources – Under IHL, pillage is prohibited, which may include the pillage of natural resources. Explosive remnants of war – States parties to the 2003 Protocol on Explosive Remnants of War are under the obligation to mark and clear, remove or destroy explosive remnants of war in affected territories under its control. Displacement, refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs) - land-related human rights violations are inherent in every displacement situation, such as the destruction and illegal occupation and/or sale of forcibly abandoned land and buildings. Remedying and restoring land rights is important to achieve justice, build peace and facilitate self-reliance (including in the place of refuge) and achieve durable solutions. Monitoring, advocacy, preventive and preparatory measures are required to facilitate early successful voluntary returns. Discrimination against women - there is often discrimination in marriage, inheritance, legal status or resource distribution, and many women cannot access, use, control or own land. The number of female-headed households increases sharply during and after conflict, and without access to land, their livelihoods become insecure. Challenges include lack of awareness of their rights and the lack of necessary land documents and resources to pursue claims. International treaty bodies have emphasized the right of women to own, use or control land on an equal basis with men; the prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of land rights (or lack of thereof); and the right of women to own land without restrictions on the basis of marital status or any other discriminatory grounds. Indigenous peoples land rights- forced evictions are often associated with indigenous peoples' land. Indigenous peoples are protected by special human rights consideration - ILO C169 and the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) emphasized the rights of ownership and possession of the peoples concerned over the lands which they traditionally occupy and their control over their economic, social and cultural development through "the principle of free, prior and informed consent" (FPIC). Business and human rights. There is an increasing trend of large-scale land-based investments by international and national business that may sometimes lead to forced evictions and human rights abuses, including the destruction of livelihoods. International standards identify the distinct but complementary roles of government and business, whereby the State has the duty to protect against human rights abuses by third parties, including businesses. Corporate responsibility includes avoiding infringement on individual rights and addressing the negative impacts, such as remedies for victims.

Rule 51: of Customary International Humanitarian law (CIHL) states Private property must be respected and may not be confiscated; except where destruction or seizure of such property is required by imperative military necessity;

Rule 131 of CIHL states in case of displacement, all possible measures must be taken in order that the civilians concerned are received under satisfactory conditions of shelter, hygiene, health, safety and nutrition and that members of the same family are not separated.

The humanitarian law establishes a duty on States to investigate and, where appropriate, prosecute violations of humanitarian law – including those that encompass housing, land and property rights. The duty to investigate and prosecute is expressed in Article 49 of the First Geneva Convention, Article 50 of the Second Geneva Convention, Article 129 of the Third Geneva Convention and Article 146 of the Fourth Geneva Convention. These provisions provide that States Parties are: “Under the obligation to search for persons alleged to have committed, or to have ordered to be committed, such grave breaches [of the Geneva Conventions], and shall bring such persons, regardless of their nationality, before its own courts”¹⁵ They also provide an obligation on States to “enact any legislation necessary to provide effective penal sanctions for violations of any of the grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions”.

f) International Criminal Law

The 1998 Rome Statute is the international treaty that sets out the mandate and jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court. The Court’s mandate specifically includes definitions of war crimes and crimes against humanity that encompass violations of HLP rights. Article 8 of the Rome Statute gives the International Criminal Court jurisdiction over a wide range of war crimes. The Court’s jurisdiction is separated into war crimes committed during an international armed conflict and those committed during a non-international armed conflict. In terms of non-international armed conflict

Article 8(2)(e)(vii) of the Rome Statute restricts ordering the displacement of the civilian population for reasons related to the conflict, unless the security of the civilians involved or imperative military reasons so demand. The Elements of Crimes for this provision provide: 1. The perpetrator ordered a displacement of a civilian population; 2. Such order was not justified by the security of the civilians involved or by military necessity; 3. The perpetrator was in a position to effect such displacement by giving such order; 4. The conduct took place in the context of and was associated with an armed conflict not of an international character; and 5. The perpetrator was aware of factual circumstances that established the existence of an armed conflict. This provision is based on Article 17 of Additional Protocol II, which provides: “The displacement of the civilian population shall not be ordered for reasons related to the conflict unless the security of the civilians involved or imperative military reasons so demand”.

Government of India though is not party to the Rome statute but the Prosecutor of ICC has proprio moto powers to investigate war crimes, crime against humanity and Crimes of aggression in any states he deems fit.

The occupying authority IOJK accused the United Nations Military Observer Group in India and Pakistan of encroaching upon the alleged state land in Srinagar's Sonwar area.

Chapter 3

Recommendations

- The United Nation and Secretrary General Under Article 99 of UN charter, should use all diplomatic, humanitarian and other peaceful means to assist Indian occupied Jammu Kashmir in meeting its responsibility to protect its people from forced eviction, genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes. It should take collective action in accordance with the United Nations Charter, as necessary.
- The Security Council should ensure accountability for crimes under international law committed in IOJK, preferably by referring the situation to the International Criminal Court or alternatively by creating an ad hoc international criminal tribunal. Further, the Security Council should adopt targeted individual sanctions, including travel bans and asset freezes, against those who appear most responsible for serious crimes under international law.
- Until the Security Council acts, the General Assembly, or alternatively the Human Rights Council, should create an independent, impartial mechanism to collect, consolidate, preserve and analyse evidence of violations of international humanitarian law and human rights violations and abuses and to prepare files to facilitate and expedite fair and independent criminal proceedings in international courts or tribunals.

Legal Forum for Kashmir - LFK

The Legal Forum for Kashmir (LFK) is an international, non-violent, and legal organization. Its members are indigenous people of the occupied territory in Jammu and Kashmir. The aim of the organization is to defend the political, social and human rights of Kashmiris and to promote the UN sanctioned Right of Self-Determination.
